The Relate Parent Learning Series

This learning series is for families who have a child with Autism Spectrum Disorder or Intellectual Disability, and is offered by Rehabilitation Centre for Children at SSCY. The purpose of the series is to give parents the skills they need to nurture their child's social development.

The parent learning series combines group learning and individual meetings with program clinicians at regular checkpoints to help parents apply what they are learning.

Parents will discover how children develop social skills, communication and flexible thinking. They will also discover that small changes in their approach can have a big impact on their child's learning. In each session, there will be an opportunity for discussion, practice and homework will be assigned to help parents use the ideas in their daily life at home.

The information provided in each session builds upon the previous; parents are asked to attend all sessions.
